DETAILED ACTION

Status

Claims 1-19 have been examined

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1,6,8,10,11, and 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. In claim 1 the applicant claims "A copyright protective device for encrypting or decrypting a content, comprising: key generation means for generating an intermediate key by using key information which is stored on a medium and in a recording/reproduction device for the medium, and using the intermediate key to generate a key with which to apply cryptographic processing to the content, cryptographic processing means for applying cryptographic processing to the content by using the key, and retention means for retaining the intermediate key in a form which is not recognizable as a key "

This process might be performed without the aid of any technology and therefore the claimed method is not within the technological arts.

In claims 6,8,10,11, and 13-16 the applicant claims method of copyright protection , similar in scope to claim 1.

All that is necessary to make a sequence of operational steps in a statutory process within 35 U.S.C. 101 is that it be in the technological arts so as to be in concordance with the Constitutional purpose to promote the progress of "useful arts" In re Musgrave, 431 F.2d 882 167 USPQ 280 (CCPA 1970)

A claim is limited to a practical application when the method, as claimed, produces a concrete, tangible and useful result: i.e. the method recites a step or act of producing something that is concrete, tangible and useful. See AT&T v. Excel Communications Inc., 172 F3d at 1358, 50 USPQ2d at 1452.

Claims 2-5,7,9 and 12 are dependant upon the above rejected claims and are rejected for at least the same reasons.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 17-19 are allowable over the prior art record.
